REPORT TO MISSISSIPPI

TEN YEARS OF SERVICE

Recognizing the need for representation as an industry group, individuals and firms of the exploration, drilling, production, pipe line, processing and service segments of Mississippi's young oil and gas industry met together in 1944 and affiliated with the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, becoming the "Mississippi-Alabama Division" of that nation-wide industry organization.

Independent oilmen and major company personnel participate equally in the affairs of the association. Its membership also includes royalty owners, bankers and other Mississippians having interests which parallel those of the oil and gas producers.

In the ten years since the organization of this local association the oil and gas industry has progressed to a position of economic importance to Mississippians second only to that of the long-established agriculture and timber industries.

Members of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association are responsible for nearly all of the progress made in the development of Mississippi's oil and gas resources.

One of the first major efforts of this group was to cooperate with members of the legislature in the preparation of a modern conservation statute designed to assure the maximum ultimate recovery of oil and gas from Mississippi reservoirs.

With the support of the association, this measure was enacted by the 1948 Legislature. The regulatory agency created by this act, the State Oil and Gas Board, has administered the conservation law in such a manner as to encourage rather than hinder the search for additional oil and gas.

Through a millage assessment on production, the oil and gas industry bears the entire cost of this state agency's widely acclaimed work.

This conservation work has endeavored to keep Mississippi's resources from being depleted by the activities of the oil and gas industry.

A continuing public information program has brought the record of the oil and gas industry to the attention of the people of Mississippi.

The members of the Mississippi-Alabama Division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association are proud of what they have accomplished in the past ten years.

Through the enterprise and with the capital of its oil and gas industry, Mississippi has advanced to a national rank of tenth in annual crude oil output and seventh in annual production of natural gas.

Exploratory work has been done in every Mississippi county; production established in 29 counties. Of the many taxes paid by oil and gas producers, the severance tax alone on this production amounts to approximately $500,000 annually.

Four plants now process Mississippi crude oil and natural gas . . . and another oil refinery is scheduled to be built in South-Central Mississippi. 4600 miles of pipe lines exist in 74 of the state's 82 counties. The assessed valuation of these pipe lines for ad valorem tax purposes exceeds that of all Mississippi rail mileage or all electric utility installations in the state.

Through such pipe lines, natural gas service is enjoyed by 238 Mississippi communities.

More than one-third of the state's total area is leased for oil and gas development, bringing annual rental payments to the landowners. Another 25,000 Mississippians receive production royalties. 5,000 Mississippians are employed in work related to the production of oil and gas (this does not include service station and distributors' personnel).

The oil and gas industry during this past year put nearly 100 million new dollars into the Mississippi economic system . . . adding this amount to the more than one billion dollars previously spent in seeking new fields and developing older ones.

Just fifteen years have elapsed since oil first was discovered in Mississippi, yet the oil and gas industry has been able to play an important part in the economic progress of the state. This young industry has a growth potential greater than that of any other Mississippi industry. The expansion of oil and natural gas production — with the many corollary benefits this expansion can bring — may well pace the economic development of our state in the years ahead.

REPRESENTATIVE

The act could have been taken by supervisors as their first official act after the appointment of an industrial representative to Hancock County. The Board sure gave congratulations of everyone.

Throughout the entire State of Mississippi, strong bids for industrial plants are being made and actively doing things to back up their efforts. They are having surveys made and committees and civic organizations are doing everything they possibly can to bring industry into their counties.

It is now up to the industrial representative to make his contacts. That is his job. When the contacts are made and the industrial prospect displays interest in our county, then the job of the industrial representative will have been completed. The job then he taken over, as we see it, by the Board of supervisors and possible a committee of responsible Hancock County citizens.

We definitely need an industry in Hancock County. Hardly anyone will dispute that fact. To newly appointed industrial representative we wish "Best of Luck."

EARLY ACTION URGED ON IRRIGATION LOANS

40 THOUSAND
SQUARE MILES OF SERVICE AREA

MISSISSIPPI

10,000 of MISSISSIPPI'S 47,248
square miles are in Southern Bell's service area. That's 85% of the state.

New industries are moving into Mississippi in ever increasing numbers. Business men realize this state is a great place to do business. That fact is fully realized, too, by the people, for while Southern Bell has an average of only 6.7 telephones per square mile. This is due to the fact that a large part of the State is sparsely settled.

point, it's expensive growth. It takes lots of wire and cable, many poles and a large investment per telephone to build lines in this state's sparsely settled areas. And the day-to-day operating costs have a high average per telephone, too.

Southern Bell folks are proud to be partners in Mississippi's progress. But telephone progress in Mississippi's sparsely settled area is mighty expensive!

Where We Get Construction Dollars

The money to expand must be secured from investors. That's one of the reasons it is essential that telephone rates be sufficient to provide a fair return on money invested in telephone property.

WEDNESDAY

ST. STANISLAUS will hold its annual football banquet Wednesday night, January 12.

The banquet celebrates a season of hard work both by the Sideline Club and the Rockchaw football squad. Members of the Sideline Club will elect their officers for the new year at the banquet, and the same evening outstanding members of the St. Stanislaus grid team will be honored with awards.

Coach Farley Day will name the outstanding members of the team and present trophies to the captain, the most valuable player, the most spirited, the hardest worker, the best lineman and the best back. Lettermen for the 1954 season also will be announced at the banquet. The red and black jackets, a symbol of their efforts, will be presented during the last week of January.

St. Stanislaus returns to the cage scene Friday night when they tangle with the Pass Christian Pirates on the Pirates court.

The Rockchaws will enter the game with a 2-1 record. However, the Rocks have been hitting for a low percentage of shots; but, still, they are averaging 46 points per game. Louis Lader leads SSC's scoring with 40 points, a 13.3 per game average.

Pass Christian has been going at an even clip, but suffered when they just edged the St. Joseph Shamrocks 53-46 in their cage meeting just before the holidays. The Shamrocks, who don't sport a powerful squad, gave the Pirates a hard battle and almost pulled the game from under.

However, the Pirates have a good all-around team, and the game should prove a close contest.

St. Joseph Academy will see action in the girls' division of the triple header.

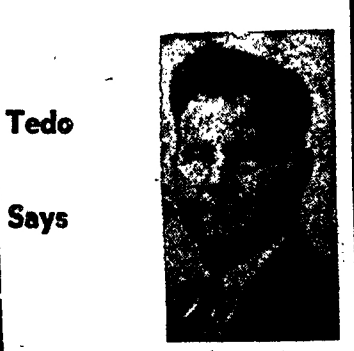

Probable starting lineup for the varsity game:

Pos.	SSC	PCMS
F	Rhodes	Necaise
F	Schexnayder	Scarborough
C	Ladner	Wescovich
G	Wittmann	Tillman
G	Vetter	Scoper

TIME AND TIDE wait for no man

Every day, a score or more miles out in the Gulf, men of the natural gas and oil industry are engaged in a ceaseless battle against wind and tide. Their responsibility is to help find new gas and oil reserves that will assure us adequate supplies for the future.

We, too, have a responsibility... to see that their efforts are encouraged, that they be allowed a profit in keeping with the huge financial risks they take, for —

...this is a search that must never end

1954 OIL SUMMARY—

drilling attempts in Mississippi during 1954. Of these ventures, 144 were "rank wildcats" seeking new oil and gas reservoirs in unproved areas—12 were successful; 132 were "dry holes."

Developments attempts totaling 214 in areas where oil or gas production had been established resulted in 133 producing wells, and 81 dry holes.

1954 DISCOVERIES

The twelve new oil or gas fields established during 1954 by exploratory drilling are: Knoxville and Wells Creek fields in Franklin County; Brownland and Oak Wood fields in Jefferson County; Darrington, Mills Bayou and Lake May fields in Wilkinson County; Sweetwater field in Lincoln County; Poplar Grove field in Adams County; Bolton field in Hinds County; Loring field in Madison County; and Hamilton field in Monroe County.

Hamilton field in Monroe County was the only new gas discovery. The remaining 11 new reservoirs found in 1954 produce oil or distillate.

WHERE WE STAND

As 1955 opens, Mississippi ranks in annual production tenth among oil-producing states and seventh among the natural gas producers. The state's 1954 oil production will total approximately 36 million barrels when totals for the year are available.

There are producible wells in 29 Mississippi counties. More than one-third of the state's total land area is under lease for oil and gas development. About 4600 miles of pipe line traverse 74 of the state's 82 counties, a goodly portion of this pipe bringing natural gas service to 238 Mississippi communities.

Two oil refineries, two natural gas recycling plants and numerous smaller handling facilities are in operation. Construction of the third and largest oil refinery is expected to begin in 1955. Jobs relating to oil and gas production employ 5,000 Mississippians.

Well over one billion dollars now has been expended by oil companies and independent oilmen in the search for and development of Mississippi oil and natural gas resources. To this considerable "investment," nearly $100 million was added in 1954 in the form of local purchases, payrolls, taxes, royalty payments, lease bonuses and rentals, and the drilling of both "wildcat" and development wells.

The close of 1954 found the 15-year old oil and gas industry in a position of economic importance to Mississippians second only to that of the long-established agriculture and timber industries.

COLLIDE IN FOG

Heavy fog Monday was blamed for the collision of two automobiles at the head of the bridge and the beach about 9:05 a.m.
